DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

From its facade, it is difficult to ascertain how many bays wide and how many stories high this building is. However, judging from adjacent buildings (see photo 1305-07 St. Paul Street) it is probably four stories high and, for the purposes of this description, two bays wide. The first story facade has been resurfaced in a pebbly aggregate material. The upper facades have been covered with a perforated metal screen giving visual relief by the sixteen vertical supports, ^{THAT DIVIDE IT} into fourteen equal sections.

The first story facade is punctuated by three flat contiguous plate glass doors which surmount a concrete stoop. The three doors are surmounted by a flat, single light, plate glass transom that bears the building name in stensiled letters. The door is ^{POSITIONED} ~~portioned~~ left of center within the facade. and designated by a wide, flat, garage opening. It is ^{POSITIONED} ~~portioned~~ right of center within the facade.

A flat metal door that surmounts a concrete stoop punctuates the extreme right side of the second bay.

Upper story fenestration is either obscured by the screen or nonexistent. The roof is flat.
